LOYOLA COMPLETES FOOTBALL STAFF

The Department of Physical Education and Athletics of Loyola completed its football coaching staff yesterday with the appointment of Larry Tomlinson and David McIninch. Tomlinson will serve as Head Coach of the J.V. Football "Braves" and also aid the varsity during training camp. McIninch will be an assistant coach in charge of team defense with the J.V. Braves.

Tomlinson came to Montreal as an offensive end with the Alouettes in 1963 after learning his football under one of the top college coaches in the U.S., Bob Devaney at the University of Nebraska. His assistant Dave McIninch will be returning to the campus where he was a four year standout as a defensive halfback with the Loyola Warriors from 1961-1965.

Varsity Head Coach George Dixon feels both men's qualifications will complement his present staff and be of immediate help during the varsity training camp. The Warriors who are completing their second week of drills are still welcoming candidates. Any returning student or new freshman wishing to be a member of one of the Loyola teams should report to the Athletic Complex.
